RAILROAD MEASURE WILL COME UP FOR VOTE THEN.

DOLLIVER MAKES SPEECH

Says Aldrich Tariff Measure is Hoax of the Past Year.

Washington, D. C., June 12.—The senate and house conference on the railroad rate bill spent several hours in conference with the president today and at the conclusion a hope for a complete agreement on the full-road bill would be reached tonight.

Defends Position.
Senator Dolliver in a speech today vigorously defended himself and other insurgents against the charge of party disloyalty because they opposed the present tariff.

Two Hoaxes.
He referred to two great hoaxes of the past year as Cook's discovery of the pole and the Aldrich reduction tariff.

The senate, by a vote of 13 to 44 today rejected the motion to strike out a provision of the sundry civil bill appropriation of $250,000 for the tariff board.

SECURED FUNDS TO PAY HUSBAND'S FINE

Wife of Milwaukee Bartender Who Stole From Employer Raised $100
From Friends in Appleton.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 12.—Mrs. Joseph H. Schultz of Appleton, whose husband pleaded guilty to robbing the saloon of his employer so that he might obtain money to be married with, succeeded in raising the money to pay the fine of $100 imposed on him. She communicated with friends at Appleton and her sister arrived from that city Sunday night. As soon as the money can be transmitted the fine will be paid and the young couple will be allowed to continue their interrupted honeymoon.

Schultz was arrested here the day after his marriage. "Joe will get out now," Mrs. Schultz said. "It has been pretty hard, all this money, but we will go somewhere and get work to pay back what we owe and straighten out everything. There is no big consolation—he loves me so much that he would steal to get the money to marry me."

MORE THAN SCORE PERISH IN FLAMES

Number of Dead From Montreal Herald
Fire Estimated at From Twenty to Thirty-five.

Montreal, Que., June 12.—In a fire which today destroyed the Herald building, many persons perished and the number of dead in variously estimated from twenty to thirty-five. The financial loss is $200,000.

A huge tank on the roof of the building suddenly gave way, carrying everything and everybody with it to the basement. An explosion of gas from the sewer and pipes followed and the victims perished where they fell.

FLEW FASTER THAN TRAIN IN BI-PLANE

Charles K. Hamilton Made Trip From New York to Philadelphia Today in Less Than Two Hours.

Philadelphia, June 12.—Traveling at a speed greater than that of the fastest express train between the two cities, Charles K. Hamilton, in a Curtiss bi-plane, completed the first half of his flight from New York to Philadelphia and return at 2:28 a. m. today. He covered the distance, approximately 80 miles, in one hour and fifty minutes. Luncheon was served before an attempt was made to begin the return trip.

He attempted to return but went only as far as Perth Amboy, N. J., when his engine broke down.

BOTH SIDES FILED THE BRIEFS TODAY

Bullinger Matter is Still in the Forefront in Washington
News.

Washington, D. C., June 12.—Bribe cases were filed by attorneys for the "prosecution" and "defense" with the Bullinger-Pinchot investigating committee today. Attorney Brandeis, counsel for Glavin, and Pepper, for Pincus, contend in their briefs that the evidence adduced during the investigation has shown Bullinger unfit to administer the affairs of public domain, because of his obvious leaning toward a policy of distribution instead of conservation of the people's land. They condemn his attitude toward the champions of conservation, and charge him with causing embarrassment to the president and a loss to the people.

Equally insistent that Bullinger's actions, in and out of the interior department have not been open to criticism, Vortec, counsel for Secretary Bullinger, declares that none of the accusations made against him have been sustained by the presentation of facts. Vortec attempts to show by the evidence there has been a conspiracy to secure Bullinger's removal from office because he did not approve of the so-called "Gardner policies."

JANESVILLE STUDENT HONORED AT COLLEGE

Floyd Dennison Appointed Manager of 1911 School Publication at Lawrence College.

Appleton, Wis., June 12.—George L. Koehn, of Sheboygan, has been elected editor-in-chief, and Floyd Dennison, of Janesville, business manager of the "11 Arlet," the book published annually by the Junior class at Lawrence college.

The office of editor-in-chief and business manager of the Arlet is the highest honor that can be paid to a member of the Junior class by his fellow students. The Arlet is a book about the life at Lawrence, and an editor-in-chief, Mr. Koehn, will have complete charge of the work, but will have associate editors for the different departments: athletics, music, etc.

Mr. Dennison, the business manager, will have full charge of the business end of the work, will look after the advertising, procure the illustrations, etc., and have the book printed. The book is issued shortly before commencement each spring by the Junior class, but the work is so important that the managers are elected in the spring so they can begin work at once.

"LID" SCREWED DOWN IN WASHBURN SUNDAY

Dayfield County Town Creaks Record for Strict Observance of Sunday
Closing Laws.

Washburn, Wis., June 12.—This city was the tightest closed town yesterday ever in record in northern Wisconsin. For some months there has been agitation against Sunday saloons and Sunday theatres. The theatre men have demanded that if they were forced to close, other places of business should close also. The mayor complied with this demand yesterday. It was impossible to buy even a sack of peanuts. The grocery stores were not allowed to do business, drug stores, candy stores, all were closed alike. Now there is a demand from the people for a modification of the rule.

INSANITY REPORT SHOWS INCREASE

Throughout the State According to Figures Filed by Board

AVIATION WEEK IN HOOSIER CAPITAL

Was Opened Auspiciously Today—
Wright Brothers to Make One or More Flights Each Day.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 12.—Aviation Week, which began today upon the city's Motor Speedway, has attracted thousands of visitors from all parts of the United States and not a few from foreign countries. The meet will last all through the week and the various events will be watched with the greatest interest by the thousands intensely interested in the progress and development of aerial navigation. The meet which opened here today is the first aviation exhibition under the Wright license. The Wright brothers, who are protected by the restraining injunction of the courts, against any alleged infringement by others upon the principles of their invention, have secured their claims for this week's meet upon the guarantee of the management that their share of the receipts would be at least $50,000. On the other hand the Wrights guaranteed to make flights daily with one or more of their machines.

For weeks the Wright brothers have been busy at their trading quarters to train aviators in the use of their machines and it is expected that some records will be broken in the course of the meet, provided the weather conditions are all favorable. The program includes more than thirty events for special prizes and in some of the events lively competition is expected. Among the machines which will take part in the various contests is a Bleriot, which will be piloted by a Mr. C. G. Fisher, the president of the Speedway company. The principal events have been reserved for Saturday, when there will be special trials for record high flights and cross-country flights over the state of Indiana. In all events there will be special cash prizes, trophies and medals, with additional bonuses for lowering existing world's records.

MADRIZ BREAKS HIS PROMISES QUICKLY

Orders Removal of American Prisoner to Interior Town Outside of Protection Zone.

Bluefields, June 12.—William D. Pittman, the American who mined the territory about Bluefields for the Estrada government and was captured by Madriz troops, has been spirited away and presumably taken to Managua for trial. It was supposed he was virtually under American protection. Prisoners are being handled in an almost barbarous manner.

MR. DEARMOND WILL TAKE CHARGE SOON

New Secretary of the Janesville Industrial and Commercial Club Visits City.

"Janesville looks like a city of from twenty to twenty-five thousand people," said Louis G. De Armond, the new secretary of the Janesville Industrial and Commercial club today. "There are all sorts of possibilities in a city like Janesville and I never had the pleasure of meeting gentlemen who were as much in earnest about the booming of the city as is the executive committee of the new club I am to be secretary for. They show the proper spirit and are ready to co-operate to make Janesville the city it should be." Mr. De Armond will move to Janesville to take charge of the work July 1 and is looking for a house for his family today. He took luncheon this noon with the directors of the club and discussed matters of importance with them at that time.

Princeton.

Notre Dame, Ind., June 12.—For the sixty-sixth time in its history the University of Notre Dame, the famous Roman Catholic institution of learning in this city, is holding its closing exercises today. The graduation class exercises were held this morning and this evening the commencement exercises will be held. Thomas H. Marshall, Governor of Indiana, has consented to deliver the commencement address to the graduating class and Dr. E. A. Pace, professor of philosophy in the Catholic University of America at Washington will deliver the baccalaureate sermon.

T. P. A. CONVENTION IN CHATTANOOGA

Several Thousand Commercial Travelers From All Sections of United States in Attendance.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 12.—Several thousand commercial travelers from all parts of the United States gathered in the grand parade with which the annual convention of the T. P. A. Protective Association opened here this morning. The streets were handsomely decorated in honor of the guests and enormous crowds lined the principal thoroughfares through which the paraders marched. After the parade the delegates assembled at the Auditorium, where the convention was formally called to order for its opening session. The delegates were welcomed by Governor Nathan K. Patterson, Mayor Thompson of Chattanooga and H. Andrews, representing the local part of the organization. Responses were made by National President P. J. O'Connor and L. C. Garabrant, of Nashville, president of the Tennessee division. The convention will continue through the week and business sessions will be held daily. The Portland, Ore., delegation is working hard to make friends and win support for their proposition to hold next year's convention in their city.

OHIO PYTHIANS IN SNALES

Lima, O., June 12.—A week of unusual interest and activity in Ohio Pythian circles was observed in by the arrival of knights from all parts of the state to attend the 41st annual convention of the Ohio Grand Lodge of Knights of Pythias, beginning its four days' session here today. The spectacular feature of the convention will be the grand parade of the subordinate lodges which will take place tomorrow afternoon. Many distinguished members of the order are in attendance, among them Supreme Chancellor Brown from Texas, who is the special guest of the convention and will deliver an address of particular interest to the subordinate lodges.

MARIETTA COLLEGE DIAMOND JUBILEE

Ohio Institution is Celebrating 75th Anniversary of Granting of Its Charter.

Marietta, O., June 12.—This is a regular home-coming week for this city, which has during festive attire in honor of two important events in its history, the celebration of which has attracted several thousand former residents to the famous old town which makes the site of the old settlement in Ohio and the North west Territory. Marietta is 122 years old this month and the present week marks the seventy-fifth anniversary of the establishment of Marietta College as a properly chartered college. The celebration, which began yesterday with preaching in the churches and the annual baccalaureate service, will continue all through the week and will contain many interesting and enjoyable features. Today is devoted to reunions of the Greek letter societies, which will be continued tomorrow. Many of the distinguished alumni of the college have come back to their Alma Mater for this celebration and will address the students and alumni at the various meetings to be held during the week. Welcomes will be the principal day, when some of the most eminent visitors will deliver addresses. President Alfred T. Perry will give a review of the history of the college and Rev. Frank W. Gundlach of Chicago will speak on "The Heroin of Scholarship." At the annual banquet on Thursday night Charles G. Dawes of Chicago will be toastmaster and there will be speeches from many noted guests.

Among the speakers will be Prof. Edwin A. Grosvener of Amherst college; national president of the Phi Beta Kappa; Rev. William W. Jordan, Clinton, Mass.; Col. Douglas Putnam, of Ashland, Ky.; Prof. Henry E. Bourne of Western Reserve University; Albert Shaw and many others. Governor Harmon and other prominent public officials are also expected.

It was in 1797 that a meeting of the citizens of Marietta was held, presided over by General Rufus Putnam, of revolutionary fame, to consider the plan of establishing an institution of learning. The Marietta Academy, established in a plain and modest log house, was the outcome of that meeting. David Putnam, a graduate of Yale, was the first principal. This school was steadily improved as an institution for higher education until it took on the character of a college and in 1833, at another meeting of Marietta's citizens, it was decided to establish the school upon a permanent basis. Two years later, in the month of June, the institution was chartered under the name of Marietta College. Although the college was never subsidized by the state, but was maintained altogether by voluntary subscriptions, it has maintained a high educational standard and has become famous throughout the country. An effort will be made by the trustees to raise $200,000 to place the institution upon a better financial basis.

Cincinnati, O., June 12.—The seventh annual reliability touring contest of the American Automobile association, commonly known as the Glidden tour, will start from this city tomorrow morning. Before it is ended the contestants will have made a journey of nearly 3,000 miles that will cover a large section of the southwest and middle west and take them within the borders of thirteen states. There will be fifteen days of traveling and, with the stop-overs, the end will come on the last day of the month at Chicago.

This was an exceedingly busy day for the several hundred automobilists who are interested directly or indirectly in the far-famed tour. It was the last opportunity to see that the contesting machines were in perfect condition for the long grid and to arrange for the checking of baggage and the hundred and one other preliminaries that must be attended to. The official badges were distributed by the committee and each contesting car was furnished with small pennants denoting their make and tags bearing their numbers.

The tour this year will be a contest of physical endurance as well as one that is bound to test the cars. There will be days when the contestants will have to cover nearly 250 miles over roads they know little about.

Once the Queen City is left behind the "tourists" will head for Lexington and thence on to Louisville, where the first night will be spent. From the Kentucky metropolis the route takes them through Bowling Green to Nashville. After spending the night in the Tennessee capital, the tourists will take a southerly course through Columbia to Sheffield, Ala., the next night stop. Friday the journey will be continued along the Tennessee-Mississippi line until Memphis is reached.

The route for Saturday will take the travelers from Memphis to Little Rock, a distance of over two hundred miles. An easy Sunday run will be made from Little Rock to Hot Springs, where the journey will be resumed Monday morning. Leaving Hot Springs there will be a run to the Texas line and Texarkana, on the boundary line, will shelter the tourists Monday night. Tuesday will be devoted to a run from Texarkana to Dallas, with a noon stop at Paris.

Oklahoma will be the next state to entertain the Gliddens. After a 200-mile run from Dallas, by way of Terrell, the contestants will reach Lawton, Wednesday night, and will remain there until the following morning. Oklahoma City will be reached Thursday evening. From Oklahoma City the long run will start, the first day heading for Wichita, which is 216 miles away. Two hundred and thirty-five miles more will land the tourists at Kansas City, where Saturday night and Sunday will be passed.

Then the beginning of the end will find the tourists heading northward again for Omaha. The run from Kansas City to Omaha will constitute the longest day's journey, covering a distance of 243 miles. Leaving Omaha Tuesday morning the motorists will steer eastward across the state of Iowa. A run of 160 miles will bring them to Des Moines, where elaborate entertainment has been prepared for them Tuesday night. The next day will take the contestants to the Mississippi river, with Davenport as the night stop. Crossing the river early the next morning the last day's run will be commenced. One hundred and eighty miles across northern Illinois will bring the tourists to Chicago, the final objective point and the end of what promises to be the most successful as well as the longest reliability contests ever conducted under the auspices of the American Automobile association.

A Bird's Curiosity.

Prof. Guy A. Bailey, a member of the faculty of the Genesee State Normal school, relates a little incident which might be doubted were it not for the fact that he has the proof to show for the story. Mr. Bailey was on Twelfth hill with his camera attempting to get a picture of a horned lark. The lark evidently thought that Mr. Bailey was providing it with a bird house, as it hopped up to the camera, back into the trees, and then back on the camera again.

The bird repeated this performance several times, refusing to remain in the trees long enough to be snapped. Finally Mr. Bailey left the camera where he had located it, went and got another camera, and when he returned he secured a splendid picture of the bird perched on camera No. 1. Curiosity got the best of the bird, and the result was a novel picture. Genesee correspondence Rochester Herald.

PEN-MAKERS WERE VICTORS SATURDAY; KNITTING CO. WINS

Heavy Hitting Characterizes Both Games in Commercial League on Saturday.

Heavy hitting characterized both games in the Commercial league Saturday, when the Parker Pen company defeated the Knitting company's team 14 to 10, and the Lewis Knitting company's aggregation put it over their opponents from the Y. M. C. A., 9 to 3. The pen-makers secured sixteen hits off of Smith's delivery while the Knitting team hit only twelve hits for their ten runs. Butters, however, struck out fifteen, while Smith fanned only four.

Howard for the sputters, fanned six and allowed eight hits, while Richards for the athletes struck out nine and allowed an equal number of hits. The lineup for the two games follows:

Y. M. C. A.—Dorloth, 3b; Mathews, cf; Murphy, 1b; Carle, ss; Richards, p; Kerrell, rf; Klatzer, 2b; Koch, c; Keller, lf.

On that day, also, the ladies will have their regular weekly bridge tournament.

CLINTON BOY HAS NATIONAL RENOWN

George Kemmer is Now Head of the Chemistry Department at New Mexico School for Mines.

Clinton, June 13.—George Kemmer, a son of J. P. Kemmer of this village writes friends that on July 12th he is to read a paper on the Electrolysis Determination of Zinc in Ore before the American Chemical Society at their meeting in San Francisco. Mr. Kemmer is a graduate of the local school and later finished at the state University. He spent some time in the east in special study and is the head of the department of chemistry at the New Mexico School for Mines at Socorro, N. M. Aside from his own paper he will also read one prepared by Dr. R. C. Kemmer of the University of Arizona at the same session of the society.

The Clinton Y. M. C. A. baseball team of Saturday took into camp the evening team from the Hotel Y. M. C. A. by a score of 3 to 2. Larson and Headley were at the points for the Clinton team. The athletic contest that was to have taken place was postponed owing to a misunderstanding relative to the ages of the contestants.

P. C. Bradley, who moved to the Texas, Panhandle, a year ago, is visiting friends in Clinton.

A. M. Van Volzer, a blacksmith, who sprained his arm last week, went to Delavan on Saturday to visit for a few days.

THE BEVERIDGE PLAN IS HIT

ALDRICH TAKES TO HIMSELF CREDIT OF SECURING TARIFF COMMISSION.

ENGAGE IN WARM DEBATE

Senator Hale is Displeased at Discussion Over Payne Law—Rhode Islander Resents Assertion That He is a Standpatter.

Washington, June 13.—Senator Beveridge's claim that he practically forced into the tariff law the provision for a tariff commission was disputed by Senator Aldrich.

During the consideration of the tariff bill in the senate and in conference these closely watching proceedings were of the impression that Mr. Beveridge was leading the fight for a commission and that practically single handed and alone he combated Mr. Aldrich and the standpatters who were in control of the bill.

Senator Aldrich would correct what he asserts is an erroneous impression and started the senate with the assertion that to him and not to Mr. Beveridge belonged the honor of being the originator and best friend of the tariff commission provision.

Denies Being Standpatter.

Senator Aldrich declared his resentment of the assertion that he is a standpatter. He reviewed his thirty years' record in the senate to sustain his contention that he has always been in favor of tariff revision when conditions require. He admitted that he recognized the fact that conditions in this country are constantly changing, but he was firm in his assertion that the present tariff law is the best protective measure that was ever passed.

Senator Beveridge stood by his record of a three years' battle for a tariff commission and called Mr. Aldrich to witness his record of the details of developments which resulted in the senate amendment in the hope of refreshing his memory and forcing him to review his claims. Mr. Aldrich, however, insisted that the provision which went into the senate bill was written by him.

Many Are Surprised.

Those who listened to the assertion that were familiar with the hard fight made to force a tariff commission into the bill were astonished, and the production of the original drafts by Mr. Beveridge to prove that he had proposed, fought for and finally obtained the commission did not shake Mr. Aldrich.

A general discussion of the tariff was precipitated greatly to the displeasure of Senator Hale of Maine, who asserts that never before was a tariff law in its infancy—within a year of its passage—so discussed as the present law.

Eugene S. Smith Has Commenced Action For $75 Damages Against Walter F. Fein.

In Justice Tallman's court next Monday will be tried the case of Eugene S. Smith vs. Walter F. Fein, an action commenced by the plaintiff to recover $75 for sheep alleged to have been pursued, worried, bitten, and killed by a vicious and mischievous dog owned by the defendant, on or about the 20th of May. The parties reside in the town of Ladysburg, Nolan, Adams & Greider are counsel for the plaintiff and the defense will be represented by Attorney E. D. McGowan.

The Hat and Royalty.

The hat plays a considerable part in civilization as a sign and a symbol, quite apart from its purpose as a shelter against the weather. In the Mother of Parliaments, the etiquette regarding it is so elaborate that new members frequently find themselves involved in difficulties. There are two peers who to this day possess the right of remaining covered: the presence of royalty, if they care to exercise it. And the king always puts on his field marshal's hat before he reads the speech to the assembled lords and commons.—London Chronicle.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK AT EDGERTON BEGUN

Baccalaureate Sermon to Graduating Class of High School Delivered by Rev. Roberts Last Night.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton, June 13.—The baccalaureate sermon to the graduates of the Edgerton High school was preached last evening at the Methodist church. There was a large crowd present at the services, the members of the church and the faculty turning out in force. After the sermon the class and the faculty were entertained at the home of D. W. North, where delightful refreshments were served.

The first band concert of the season was given Saturday evening. The concert was much enjoyed.

Mrs. McIntosh, of Janesville, was an Edgerton visitor Saturday.

The Edgerton Sluggers played Ft. Atkinson here Saturday afternoon and won by a score of 22 to 10. It was the first game of the season and was well attended.

Leo Sultsbury returned Saturday evening from Kentucky.

Miss Josephine Tallard spent Saturday shopping in Janesville.

Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh, Miss Helen Coon, Roscoe and Willie McIntosh returned Saturday evening from a trip overland to Milwaukee in Mr. McIntosh's new car.

Delos Nicholson, teacher of art in the Washington University of St. Louis, is at home for a short visit.

THIRTEEN YEAR OLD CHARLIE LAWRENCE MUST GO TO SCHOOL

Truant and His Mother Were in Municipal Court This Morning—Threatened With Reformatory.

Thirteen year old Charlie Lawrence must go to school and his excuses concerning with the want of books and shoes and stockings will not be accepted. The boy and his mother, Mrs. Mary Lawrence, appeared before Judge Field in municipal court this morning to answer to a complaint filed by Truant Officer R. C. Hubbard. He had been absent from the Catholic school so long that his name had been dropped from the roll. After considerable deliberation it was decided to adjourn the case until the middle of September as the schools close in about a week. If young Lawrence does not tend to his schooling he will be sent to the Waubesa reformatory.

WATERED STOCK BAR, THE TALK

PLAN REACHED TO CONTROL ISSUES OF BONDS BY ROADS.

TAFT HOLDS A CONFERENCE

Conference on Railroad Bill—Speaker Cannon and Attorney General Wickham Confer With President Concerning Matter.

Washington, June 13.—President Taft does not propose to let congress adjourn without showing its purpose to carry out the pledge of the Republican party to enact legislation providing for governmental supervision of railroad stock and bond issues. Supported by the attorney general, he delivered an ultimatum to congress of the senate and house and speaker Cannon along this line and as a result a paragraph will be added to the railroad bill providing for a commission to investigate and report at the next session of congress the best means of dealing with the matter.

The president was told again that with all the Democrats but one opposed to giving the interstate commerce commission supervision on this subject, it was absolutely impossible to get an out-and-out provision for the control of stock and bond issues in the bill at this session.

There were present at the conference at the White House speaker Cannon, Senators Elkins and Aldrich and Mr. Mann of the conference and Attorney General Wickham.

Wants Party Pledge Kept.

The president called the conference to indicate more clearly to the congress that he wished the house provision giving the interstate commerce commission supervision over stock and bond issues retained in the bill. He declared again that the party had pledged itself to enact legislation which would prevent the overissue of securities, or "stock watering," as the practice is more generally known.

The senate conference explained the situation in the upper house to the president. The president was told that every Democratic senator, with one exception, was opposed to the supervisory provision on the ground that it infringed on the rights of the state to supervise corporations chartered under state laws. Other senators, in the Republican ranks, were opposed to the provision on similar grounds, and because of pressure from their home states.

Foe to "Watered" Stocks.

The president declared at the conclusion of the conference that he would continue to urge legislation to prevent "watering" of railroad stocks so long as he was in the White House. It is understood that the president has receded from his position in regard to the time for the suspension of alleged unreasonable rates by the interstate commerce commission and that the bill as it comes from the conference will fix the time at ten months, the same as contained in the senate bill.

HE ASKS FOR A SQUARE DEAL

PUT "INTERESTS" OUT OF POLITICAL SWAY, IS PINCHOT'S SLOGAN.

ASSAILS TARIFF AS GRAFT

Former Forester Delivers Stinging Speech at St. Paul in Which He Scorching Congress and Leaders of Republican and Democratic Parties.

St. Paul, Minn., June 13.—Gifford Pinchot, speaking before the Roosevelt club here, scorching congress and the leaders of both political parties and characterized the present government of the United States as a government by and for the special interests.

He demanded the absolute divorce of "the interests" and politics. Here are some of the pointed things Mr. Pinchot said in the course of his speech:

"A representative of the people who wears the collar of the special interests has touched bottom. He can sink no farther."

Demand Square Deal.

"The people of the United States demand a new deal and a square deal."

"The motto in every primary in every election—should be this: 'No watch dogs of the interests need apply.'"

"The alliance between business and politics is the most dangerous thing in our political life. It is the snake we must kill."

"The special interests must get out of politics or the American people will put them out of business."

Faith in Congress Lost.

"Because the special interests are in politics we as a nation have lost confidence in congress."

"The people of the United States believe that, as a whole, the senate and house no longer represent the voters by whom they were elected, but the special interests by which they are controlled."

"Differences of purpose and belief between political parties today are vastly less than the differences within the parties."

"It is a greater thing to be a good citizen than a good Republican or a good Democrat."

"The protest against politics for revenue only is as strong in one party as in the other, for the servants of the interests are plentiful in both."

Attacks Tariff Law.

In discussing the tariff Mr. Pinchot declared that congress had directly violated the will of the people and thereby shown its alliance with the "interests." He made special mention of the coal and steel and wool interests.

He declared that conservation had captured the nation and that its progress during the past twelve months had been amazing.

"Efforts to obscure or belittle the issue have only served to make it larger and clearer in the public estimation," said Mr. Pinchot. "The conservation movement cannot be checked by the baseless charge that it will prevent development, or that every man who tells the plain truth is either a muck-raker or a demagogue. It has taken firm hold on our national moral sense, and when an issue does that it has won."

"All monopoly rests on the unregulated control of natural resources and natural advantages, and such control by the special interests is impossible without the help of politics."

Turns Fire on Congress.

Mr. Pinchot then entered upon a denunciation of congress as a whole as having lost the confidence of the people and exclaimed:

"Who is to blame because representatives of the people are so commonly led to betray their trust? We all are—we who have not taken the trouble to resent and put an end to the knavery we knew was going on. The brand of politics served out to us by the professional politician has long been composed largely of hot meals for the interests and hot air for the people, and we have all known it."

"Political platforms are not sincere statements of what the leaders of a party really believe, but rather forms of words which those leaders think they can get others to believe they believe."

COST OF LIVING HIGHER THAN FOR TWENTY YEARS

Necessities of Life in March Show Great Advance Over Previous Years.

New York, June 13.—For the month of March just passed the cost of living was higher than at any period in the preceding twenty years.

This fact is shown by government statistics as set forth in the latest report of the commerce and labor department.

The report makes a comparison of necessities of life from 1890 to 1910. It makes the cost of living in March of this year 7.5 per cent. higher than in March, 1909, 10.2 per cent. higher than in August, 1908, 21.1 per cent. higher than the average yearly price of 1900, 48.2 per cent. higher than the average yearly price of 1897, and 32.8 per cent. higher than the average yearly price for the ten years from 1890 to 1899.

These figures are for wholesale prices alone. The retail prices computed would probably show a more alarming increase.

2 SUGAR MEN GET SHORT TERMS.

Sentence on Helke and Gerbracht Deferred to August 30.

New York, June 13.—The pronouncing of sentences upon Charles R. Helke, secretary of the American Sugar Refining company, and Ernest E. Gerbracht, former superintendent of the Williamsburg refinery, who were found guilty of conspiracy to defraud the government of duties, has been postponed until August 30 by Federal Judge Martin.

John F. Halligan, formerly a checker on the Williamsburg dock; Joan M. Voelker, also a checker, and Harry F. Walker, former assistant superintendent, who were indicted with Helke, Gerbracht and Bendernagel, but pleaded guilty, were called for sentence. Only Halligan was in court.

Voelker, who is seventy-one years old, is confined to his bed in a dying condition, and Walker is ill at his home. Judge Martin sentenced Halligan and Walker to serve three months each on Blackwell's island. Sentence on Voelker was suspended.

STONE MISS JANE HASKELL.

Angry, Guthrie Crowds Resent Transfer of State Capital.

Oklahoma City, Okla., June 13.—In a wild automobile drive in the midnight hours Saturday, the seal of the state of Oklahoma was brought from Guthrie to Oklahoma City, following the announcement that Oklahoma City won in the state capital fight by a majority of more than fifty thousand votes over Guthrie and Shawnee, Oklahoma City probably will be proclaimed the state capital.

The seal was surreptitiously removed from the secretary of state's office and is now declared to be in the rooms of Governor Haskell at the Lee Huchins hotel.

Jane Haskell, 17-year-old daughter of Governor Haskell, was hoisted and stoned from the streets of Guthrie Saturday night, when she started for Oklahoma City, and was forced to flee to the governor's rooms in the Royal hotel with her escort. She came to Oklahoma City on the first train.

NOT SHERLOCK HOLMES, BUT ALMOST AS GOOD

Ed. Barracough Discovers 'The Man Who Never Had a Full Dinner Pail.'

There will be no more dinner bucket thefts at the new yards in the future, that is, by those who witnessed the exhibition Saturday afternoon. To the fertile brain of Edward Barracough and the scientific knowledge of a druggist belongs the credit. For the past two months, the former has been missing a portion of the eggs which form the place de resistance of his dinner. While not stingy, "Taylor" does not like to be considered an easy mark and he determined to show up the culprit, who ever it happened to be. Accordingly, he had two eggs dropped Saturday with a powerful concoction of cotton oil or something equally powerful and set back to await developments. They developed all right.

For the first time in a number of months, there were no switch-engines in service at the new yards yesterday. One engine was put into service last night.

Storekeeper James P. Mason and Assistant Frank Hennessy this morning began to take the annual inventory of stock and equipment at the round house. The work will take about a week.

Engineer Townsend and Fireman Grant took 580 south Saturday night in place of Engineer Lepper and fireman who laid over on account of the fireman's illness.

WARNER'S Rust-Proof CORSETS

Note these numbers—Style 201-301

They belong to corsets that are the notable creations from the workshop of the designer—recognized the world over as the greatest corset designer and figure-fashion maker.

Not anything peculiar about this model—no clap-trap—not anything to catch and deceive the eye. Just a simple, perfect piece of corset designing and making. It has an appearance of extraordinary length and it is long—but there is plenty of room in the skirt—the slash at the side gives delightful freedom.

Recommended for large women—made in cool batiste and soft beautiful coutille—made to a comfortable, fashionable fit—made to wear, not to rust, break or tear.

Empire top, long skirt model—intended for girlish, slender figures. The top is not loose—a reputation which Empire Top corsets have, but it fits the form. No reason why girlish figures with narrow bust measurements should not wear long skirt models—quite the reverse. Everything is in favor of their doing so as it is the correct form that creates the figure. Warner's Corsets are guaranteed to wear—not to rust, break or tear. THE MILWAUKEE CONVENTION.

The republican press of the state, so far as heard from, endorses the work of the republican convention. Ex-Governor Board has this to say of it in the Jefferson County Union:
"The gathering of that mighty host of republicans in Milwaukee on Wednesday in demonstration of their loyal support of President Taft and his efforts to redeem the pledges given in the national convention, was one of the most significant political events in the history of Wisconsin. Let it be plainly understood that this convention was composed of hundreds of men, stalwarts and halfbreeds who have grown heartily tired of the effort certain leaders have been making to make them disloyal to President Taft. They are tired of the effort to divide and disintegrate the republican party. They are still republican, filled with old-time loyalty to a loyal leader. And so they come together to say to the world, 'We stand by President Taft, and stand by him they will.'"
"There never was a more sincere, brave and patriotic man in the present-day chair than William Howard Taft. It is a burning shame that Wisconsin republicans in congress have been his enemies, have entered into a conspiracy to traduce him and prevent him from doing all he could do in behalf of the country. But even Lincoln in 1861 found plenty of traitors in his own camp. Like the poor, they are always with us."
The Evening Wisconsin Says:
"The stand which the convention took was impregnable. It has made a brief, clear declaration of principles and provided for the effective organization of the republican party in this state. It has made no nominations, and the work of naming the party, which was the object of the gathering, will proceed more rapidly on account of that fact. The convention will exert a tonic influence that will be felt not only in Wisconsin, but throughout the middle west."

The Madison State Journal.

"The presence of twelve hundred representatives of the party at the conference called on so short a notice and with so little advertising is indicative of a profound feeling among republicans of the state. The usual driving power that make a convention, namely candidates in the field who see that county delegates pledged to them shall attend the convention, was absent. The delegates went to Milwaukee to express their faith in a good and hard-laboring president who is carrying out the wishes of the party and as a solemn protest to men elected by the party who are balking and thwarting the efforts of the president."

The Deloit Free Press.
"The republicans there assembled were for harmony in the party ranks, loyalty to President Taft and his administration and to Governor Davidson. By their presence and enthusiasm they showed their allegiance to the principles and platforms as laid down by the history-making party of this country."
"The thought of such men as ex-Governor Board, Judge Baneroff, Michael Dillon, the Hon. W. D. Connor and others in their speeches before the convention was for a closer adherence to party lines, the carrying out of party pledges, and the election of men to represent the state of Wisconsin at the national capital who could be depended upon to carry forward the thought and the purpose of republicanism."
Many others comment favorably, while others, too timid to express an opinion, are waiting for developments. A lot of republicans are on the fence just now, waiting for Roosevelt to return, before deciding which way to jump. They imagine that a Taft republican and a Roosevelt republican belong to separate classes, and so they straddle the fence and take no chances.
Fortunately, these timid souls will not have long to wait, as their idol is on the high seas headed homeward. He will land on Saturday, and not many days thereafter there will be something doing, and it will soon develop that Taft and Roosevelt are in the same class.

Gifford Pinchot relieved his mind at St. Paul the other day, and doubtless feels better. His criticisms strike the administration very much like water strikes a duck, and are about as harmless. Pinchot is a forester, and he should do his insuring out in the tall timber, where appreciative nature would be undisturbed.

The Chicago Tribune has seen a vision and the slant of its news has changed since Iowa and Wisconsin were heard from. The paper has been so colorblind that it couldn't see straight. To its distorted vision the woods were full of insurgents, but the fox has lifted, disclosing the republican party still intact and doing business at the same old stand.

The postal saving bank bill has passed and it will soon be known whether the people appreciate the new form of government banking. If the postoffice banks encourage small savings, and keep funds moving in circulation it will be a good thing and the new law will justify itself.

Governor Carroll's majority in Iowa continues to roll up, and when the back counties are all in the claim of 10,000 or more will be established. The insurgents are not happy. Wisconsin has been heard from, and the state will redeem itself when the time comes.

The west may lose a few insurgent congressmen but the democratic party will gain nothing except in name. "Republicans at home and democrats in Washington" might as well be full-fledged, and out from cover all the time.

The parcels post bill is likely to die in the committee room, and the mourners will be largely confined to mail order houses and department stores.

Carol "Shuddered."

"How in blazes were they ever going to make the illustrious Vice President James B. Sherman and the other important men feel that they appreciated their wonderful speeches more than they did a mere idea blown from the lips of a pretty girl?" said Carol Stern, the Milwaukee Journal's "woman writer" in describing the recent republican state convention. Mercy, Carol, where did you learn to use such language?—From the copy boy?

While the railroad managers are talking of retrenchment, cancellation of orders, reduction of wages and all that, it is to be noticed they are busy as bees planning to fight the government's injunction suit to the last ditch.—Oshkosh Northwestern.

Political Novelties.

Senator Bailey says the only policy the democrats have at present is to keep prodding the republican factions. He might have added that it is because they have never had any other policy they people have no confidence in them. The party or the man who attempts to live by prodding merely on the mistakes or misdeeds of others is in a deplorable condition and unworthy of support.—Marquette Eagle-Star.

When the boys remarks to Johnnie, "Go and sweep the valling now," Johnnie goes about the business with a dark and gloomy brow; in a weary, listless fashion he performs his little chore, always looking, always squinting at the clock above the door. And the boys, whose heart is narrowed, sizes up that languid boy, and remarks: "That blooming youngster isn't worth three whoops in Troy." Oh, the mantle of Elijah falls upon me now and then, and I gaze into the future, see the boys grow into men; and I mark the rise of Willie to the shining heights of fame, and I'm onto little Johnnie losing out at every game.

He was in a joyful mood, on one occasion, and after many efforts at the front door lock, succeeded in getting into his hall, but he could not find the stairway to his room.

Finally on all fours, he was hunting for the lower step, and succeeded in weakening his wife, at the same time, she came to the bankster and called over, in a frightened tone: "Who's there?" The genial colonel tried to straighten himself and answered authoritatively: "It's your husband, madam. Whom were you expecting?"

Another time he was in the same happy mood, and returning home at an early morning hour, wondered what he would do to explain his delay to his wife. Passing through the hall he had a glad thought. He gathered under himself an umbrella from the hall tree. Proceeding upstairs he sat down upon the foot of his wife's bed, and raised the umbrella over him. Awaiting suddenly, she met with this bewildering apparition and exclaimed in horror: "What are you doing? Are you mad?"

THE YEAST IN DICKSON.

Hugh L. Dickson is a lawyer.

Before he was a lawyer he was a locomotive engineer.

One day his engine went over an embankment, and Dickson went with it. He was badly mangled, and when he got out of the hospital both his hands were gone.

A man without hands isn't of much use in an engine cab.

So Dickson started to study law. He couldn't pull a throttle without hands, but he could turn the leaves of Blackstone and Kent and Walker and the rest of them.

He also figured out a way by which he could hold a pen between the two stumps, which came in handy when a few weeks ago Dickson was admitted to practice in the supreme court of the United States and signed the roll.

That was a long trip for Dickson, from the hospital to the supreme court.

But he made it by sticking to his law books as he had stuck to his engine.

By and by he was made general counsel of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, and things came easier.

Dickson did not stand around, Meawberlike, waiting for something to turn up. He went out and started something.

He did not reason as some others might do: "Here I am a life cripple. The railroad company owes me a pension, and the world at large owes me a living."

Dickson realized that if the world did owe him a living it was up to him to collect it.

He was like that other lawyer, Senator Gore of Oklahoma, who went blind in his boyhood. Gore had his wife read the law books to him. And he did not stop climbing until he got into the United States senate.

Young man—

Success in life is not a matter of hands or eyes.

It is a matter of grit—and of the yeast that is in you.

If the yeast that is in you is poor you are likely never to rise. And even if the yeast is good, if it is not mixed with energy and brains, you will not rise.

Do things seem to come your way slowly or scarcely at all? Cheer up! You have two good hands to fall back upon and two good eyes to find the way.

What you need is the Dickson spirit, the Gore grit.

Make the best of what chance you have. If you have no chance, make one. If you lose your hands, use the stumps. If you go blind, use other people's eyes.

And in due time you shall reap if you faint not.

JANESVILLE MAN KILLED BY TRAIN: BODY IS MANGLED

Matthew Dalton is Found Dead On Northwestern Tracks South of Harvard Early This Morning.

Shortly after five o'clock this morning, William Morley, an engineer on the C. & N. W. Ry., while proceeding toward Chicago, with his train about one and a half miles south of Harvard, Ill., discovered a horribly mangled body which, when taken to Harvard, was identified as that of Matthew Dalton, a Northwestern road employee of this city.

In what manner Dalton came to his death will never be known except as no one could be found who witnessed the accident. It is thought, however, that he was attempting to reach Chicago on one of the fast freight trains and either lost his hold or was shaken from the cars. Engineers Morley, with his train followed train No. 534 out of Harvard and it is believed that Dalton was on this train.

While at the Leatherworkers' place yesterday afternoon, he told several that he expected to go to Chicago that evening. About half past nine that night he again expressed his desire to go to Chicago and secured permission to be absent from his work today. Although none of his friends saw him again after half past ten, it is believed that he made his way to the new yards and caught one of the midnight trains for the south.

Dalton was much seen at Harvard where he asked some of the station employees if he could get a train back to Janesville and when he learned that there was no train for the north, evidently determined to carry out his original purpose and caught a train for Chicago. This was the last time he was seen alive.

Immediately after the body had been identified relatives in this city were notified and left for Harvard. The body was brought back at eleven this morning and arrangements for the funeral were made.

Matthew Dalton, who was twenty-six years old, was born in this city April 29, 1884, educated in the public schools and passed his entire life here. Although a locomotive fireman by trade, he had been working in the Northwestern round house for the last three weeks on account of scarcity of work on the road. At the time of his death, he was well supplied with money in addition to possessing a pass and was not compelled to hunt his way.

He is survived by a brother, Maurice A. Dalton, and two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Rau and Mrs. Catherine Webber, who went to Harvard this morning, and mother, as well as a brother, James Dalton, who died within the past two years. Matthew Dalton's death beneath a train makes the second death that has occurred in the family in that way as a brother, John Dalton, was killed in the local yards about thirty years ago.

Maurice Dalton and his sister, Mrs. Webber, went to Harvard this morning and the remains were brought back to Janesville by Undertaker Dan Ryan on the train arriving here at eleven. The remains were taken to D. Ryan & Son's undertaking rooms and funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at nine o'clock from St. Patrick's church.

Nine Pension Agencies.

The home has abolished the eighteen pension agencies in different parts of the country and provided for one general disbursing agency in Washington. The senate will restore all of them, but it is expected that President Taft will later take a hand in the game and abolish nine of the eighteen, leaving nine places where pension money may be disbursed.

Her Expectation.

Mamie is considered the dullest pupil in a public school class. Not long ago the teacher assigned a subject for a composition and was surprised at the comparative excellence of Mamie's work. "Why, Mamie," she remarked, by way of encouragement, "you have done wonderfully well, but really, was it original?" "No, ma'am," replied Mamie, "I made it up myself."—New York Tribune.

COUNCIL MUST ACT REGARDING BRIDGE

At Fourth Avenue at Regular Meeting This Evening Glen Street Curb Line May Be Established.

At the regular meeting of the council this evening some action will probably be taken regarding the Fourth Avenue bridge which has been closed by the mayor's orders because of its dangerous condition. Tentative plans for a steel structure with concrete piers to span the river at that point were drawn by City Engineer C. V. Kersh some years ago but owing to the fact that the city has never taken any action with reference to extending the boundary lines of the bridge out into the stream so as to shorten the proposed structure and save several thousand dollars, they have not been completed. A new bridge would cost about $20,000 and the construction work could not be gotten under way in less than six months. That being the case it will be necessary to repair the present one. The planing is in pretty bad shape but otherwise the bridge will be serviceable for perhaps a year or two longer.

Reports from the city treasurer, the municipal court, and the board of education will be submitted and the Grand-Graham Co. will file their claim for the paving work on South Main street.

A petition presented last fall asking that the curb line on Glen street be established fourteen feet instead of twelve feet from the property line may also be brought up for consideration.

MILWAUKEE AUTO PARTY WALKED IN

To Town at 1:30 This Morning. Leaving Machine Four Miles Out on Milton Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smith and Mr. and Mrs. O. Petzsch, son and daughter of Milwaukee, and their chauffeur, composed a dust-covered and travel-stained automobile party who reached the Hotel Myers on foot at 1:30 this morning after a four mile midnight hike. The transmission of their Buick touring car broke and they had to abandon it way out on Milton avenue.

Two other touring parties, were registered at the Myers yesterday. They were composed of H. Stocking and two others from Rockford; Robert Bayl, Orway Johnson, John L. Boyd, and J. P. Pritchett of Madison.

BARN DAMAGED BY A FIRE ON WESTERN AVE.

Henry F. Bull's Property Was Injured By A Blaze Yesterday While Family Was At Cemetery.

Fire, believed to have had its origin in a sack of lime left near the door and thoughtlessly drenched by a sprinkling can, damaged a barn on Western avenue yesterday afternoon. The property is owned by Henry F. Bull and Sam Cohen has been keeping two horses, a vehicle, and harness there. The blaze occurred while the Bull family were at the cemetery. The horses were rescued but the harness and some of the other contents of the structure sustained some damage. There was a very small amount of insurance on barn and contents.

ALDERMAN GIVES HIS SIDE OF HIS ARREST FOR SPEEDING

Says He Was Not Going Forty Miles An Hour and Has Been Singled Out For Punishment.

W. T. Alderman feels that the statement credited to him as pleading guilty to driving 40 miles an hour on Court street hill is incorrect. He states that it would be impossible to distinguish either driver or car if an automobile were driven at that rate were it possible to do so on Court street hill. He feels that he is being singled out for some reason—that there are many other people who are permitted to exceed the speed limit without punishment. Outside automobiles are permitted to race up and down the main streets of the city, without attention and the speed is considerably beyond the prescribed limit.

MR. AND MRS. HARRIS WILL SPEND SUMMER IN THE BERKSHIRES

And on the Maine Coast—Will Depart With Children for Grand Beach on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. The Artist and His Work.

The great artists like the great heroes have always done whatever came to hand. Michael Angelo grumbled and said he was a sculptor when Julius I. set him to paint, but he painted the roof of the Sistine chapel, Shakespeare chafed at the popularity of the fool in the drama of his time, and then produced the Fool in "Lear."

If either of them had waited for perfect conditions and an inspiration untrammelled by circumstance he would have done nothing. They produced masterpieces because they made the best of things as they were. And this is the business of the artist in life.

JAPANESE ROYALTY VISITING AMERICA—PRINCE AND PRINCESS FUSHIMI OF JAPAN.

Prince Fushimi, cousin of emperor of Japan, accompanied by his wife and a large suite, is now crossing America on his way home from Europe. The prince has a fine war record and has been especially interested in naval affairs in the United States. While at Washington he took occasion to inspect the naval gun factory where the 14-inch rifles for the dread-noughts are being made.

AN AMERICAN KING

A Romantic and Well-Known Forgotten Incident in American History Recalled in "The Courage of Captain Plum," Our New Serial by James Oliver Curwood.

On the curving shore of Beaver Island, not far from Mackinac, in Lake Michigan, an irregular row of low cabins struggles along a single street of deep and drifting sand. Here a few dwellings, three or four stores and warehouses, and several cooper shops form a hamlet, which is clothed by law with the dignity of a county seat. This is St. James, where once a "Royal Press" executed kingly commands, and its name preserves the self-canonicalization of one who founded and maintained in the United States a monarchy absolute during its brief term and within its narrow and isolated limits—an imperium in imperio in democratic America.

The king of Beaver Island in his phobian days bore the name of James Joseph Strang. He was the son of a sturdy farmer of Cayuga county, New York. As a young man he is described as possessing eccentric ideas and a voluble tongue, and as being entirely reputable in life, with large confidence in his own capacity, and morbidly anxious for distinction. In 1843 he was caught in the tide of western emigration and borne to Burlington, Wis. Not long before Joseph Smith had founded on the banks of the Mississippi the Mormon city of Nauvoo, and was welcoming young men of energy and plausible speech to spiritual blessings and earthly honors. Strang felt this influence, was baptized into the church on February 25, 1844, and became an elder less than ten days after.

When Joseph Smith was murdered by the mob that stormed the Carthage jail, Strang laid claim to the succession, and exhibited what purported to be an autograph letter from Smith dated nine days before "the martyrdom of Joseph," in which his heirship was declared. The officers of the church at once proclaimed the letter a clumsy forgery and drove Strang from Nauvoo as a presumptuous impostor. So he started things on his own hook, founding the city of Vore, in Wisconsin, and organizing the community on a socialistic basis. Thence the colony migrated in 1846 to Beaver Island, and the socialistic community ended in a monarchy. Strang was proclaimed king, established a "Royal Press," took unto himself five wives, allowed three to each of his followers, made all the women wear bloomers and short skirts, prohibited tea, coffee, tobacco and liquor, and ruled with a high hand generally. His tyranny was the cause of his own downfall. Two of his followers, whom he had horsewhipped, shot him in the head.

Mr. Curwood makes King Strang the central figure of The Courage of Captain Plum, which will appear in this paper in serial form.

Eskimo Candy.
Tallow is the Eskimo's candy. It is put up in bright red packages made out of the foot of water fowl. The women cut off the red feet of this bird, which is called the dove, draw out the bones and blow up the skin so as to make pouches which they fill with the reindeer tallow for their little folk, according to a writer in Our News.

None of the food that the Eskimos eat seems very inviting to us, but they are extremely fond of it and are very apt to overeat. It is said by explorers who have gone into Greenland that it is no uncommon sight to see an Eskimo man who has eaten an enormous meal of the raw, frozen flesh of the reindeer, seal or walrus lying on his back and eating blubber until he cannot move.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

I HAD argued with the Very Clever Man on a certain subject, and had almost—perhaps quite—gone down before the powerful battery of his information and eloquence.

He seemed very deeply in earnest about it. It pleased me. I like to see clever people in earnest.

And then the next day I happened to be near a group of which the Very Clever Man was one, and overheard the same subject being discussed, and to my absolute amazement and disillusionment the Clever Man was taking the opposite side.

Why disillusionment? Didn't he have a right to take either side?

Yes, but not both.

At least, not to my way of thinking. It is all very well to use argument as a series of mental gymnastics in a debating club, but I think when men and women are discussing vital subjects, it behooves them to have vital convictions and not play possum in the corner with their beliefs.

Of course I believe in open-mindedness. I believe a man should hear both sides of a case. THOROUGHLY, before he makes up his mind and takes his stand, but once having taken it, I believe he should never retreat from it unless he sees some good reason for changing his ideas on the subject.

I thought perhaps the Very Clever Man had changed his mind on the subject—though it must have been a lightning change—but when I asked him about it, he refused to accept that loophole of escape.

"Oh no, I hadn't changed my mind," he insisted, cheerfully, "I'll take any side of any question for the sake of an argument."

That seems to me almost like denying your country. I suppose I'm absurdly serious-minded, but I like people whose convictions on big subjects are so intense, so passionate that they could no more speak against them, merely for the sake of achieving an argument, than they could speak ill of their mothers or sisters.

And now, though you may think I'm splitting hairs and making mountains out of molehills in my protest against these over-zealous arguers, may be you'll be impressed by a protest on the same subject from a wiser mind.

Says William Penn, in his quaint, but shrewd way: "Don't use yourself to dispute against thine own judgment, to show wit, but to prepare thee to be too indifferent about what is right; nor against another Man, to vex him, or for mere Trial of skill; since to inform or to be informed, ought to be the End of all Conference."

HINTS FOR THE HOME

A baby that is clean is a sweet baby no matter how simple the little garments. Plenty of clothes is one of the problems of the woman who does her own sewing, but even that problem may be simplified. Plenty of plain little garments may be accomplished by almost any mother if she will select a simple pattern and make a number of garments after the same plan. One pattern which recommends itself to the woman who does her own washing and ironing is made by folding a piece of cloth double lengthwise and cutting out a little garment after the old-fashioned paper doll pattern. Let the little sleeves be simple wide bells without any seam save the one which runs down the under arm of the garment. Then measure the baby's head and cut a round hole at the place where the goods are doubled to slip over the head. To finish the neck the little scalloped edges which come in the novelty blouses will be simple and pretty. The white little sleeves may be either hemmed or have the edge run around them. Do all this work before sewing the seams down the sides. Curve the little skirt well up to the side seams and hem and the little dress is done. If you will cut out several at once, and rush a little you will have enough little garments made in a short time to keep the baby sweet.

These dresses. He flat and can be ironed in a third the time it takes to iron a yoked dress. Best of all the baby looks dainty and sweet in the simple little princess. Skirts made after the same pattern are very dainty and may have the lower edge finished with either ruffle or lace, and may be made as elaborate as our wishes.

The transfer embroidery patterns than can be transferred by using a hot iron are a great convenience to the woman who is far from a regular fancy store, or for the woman who must economize. The patterns may be fitted to turn and round edges by clipping the paper and beating them down. A little thought will soon make the user expert in the many ways in which they may be adapted for special purposes.

One of the greatest tasks that any woman who makes children's clothes has to accomplish is to make all the little garments come even at the bottom. One woman makes all her's exactly the same length, but to the woman who must use out-grown garments this does not appeal.

One way out of the trouble is to have two sets of buttons on a little waist to which the undergarments are fastened or to have the undergarment fastened on the shoulder with several button holes worked in the strap so that all the little garments may be lowered or raised at the same time.

TO SET THE WORLD A-RIGHT.

By MARY RUSSELL.

"May I fasten that unreachable button for you?" The pleasant voice on the street attracted my attention, and I turned to look at the speaker.

She was a fresh faced woman of middle age, and she was speaking to a younger woman who sat on the seat in front of her. The younger woman flushed angrily and snapped, "I don't care for your help."

"The older woman smiled and said easily, 'Yes, it does. You are a rather attractive little woman, but your dress looks untidy.'"

"Well," gasped the other woman in angry surprise, "I don't care for any of your help." And she flounced around in the seat as if the pleasant voiced woman had insulted her.

"The other woman looked back coolly and catching my amused look smiled and said in her frank, friendly fashion, 'I'm always getting myself into trouble. I have a man, my daughter, says, for setting things right according to my ideas. But so many people don't want to be set right.'"

"So many people don't want to be set right? Is not that true? They have their little fancies and hug their delusions to their breast despite the warnings of older and more experienced friends."

"If it isn't 'unreachable fourth button,' it is something else that is wrong and that we hope to set right by a word out of wisdom and experience."

The child with blistered fingers knows that the fire burns, but the child that has only viewed the flames through a fence thinks it is only comfortably warm.

The mistakes we make and the fingers we burn because we will not listen!

"I do not believe that experience is the best teacher. I think lives are ruined by this heedlessness, unnecessarily often."

Why will not children—and older persons—listen to advice?

True, the cheapest thing in the world today is advice. It is like the air—free and untouchable.

Like the air it is invaluable. We have always had it. It costs nothing and we never stop even to think what it is worth to us. Let us come to a place where the air is shut off and we soon find that life may do without everything else almost, but that the end comes without the supply of clean, cheap, universal air.

Let us then school ourselves to the people can give us much of value if we want to be set right. People who think deeply on many subjects have a message for us. Those whose blindness it is to look at life from many viewpoints will give us a lift on the right road to higher and better things if we will only take heed.

Let us then school ourselves to listen and learn. There is much cheer with the wheel, but taking it all in all we will find that there is good, sound, solid material in most of the kindly words that are thrown out so freely. No one can know your business but yourself, but certain great truths apply to any business in life—though it be merely to live up to high ideals. Woe to the person who loses his or her ideals. He is like a prisoner in a dark cell. "He liveth best who liveth best and learns."

The Optimist's Corner

Daily Helps to Health and Happiness

By GEORGE F. HUTCHES, A. M., M. D.

Have you failed? Not a bit of it. Do not allow the word "fail" in your vocabulary. When all our plans have gone awry it is difficult to work on undauntedly, to be brave, hopeful and pleasant. The failure of our plans may be the forerunner of greater success. We may find in the debris of our shattered hopes material for the building of a better character, of a more truly successful life. "Failure is often the turning-point, the pivot of circumstance that swings us to higher levels. It may not be financial success, it may not be fame; it may be new draughts of spiritual, moral or mental inspiration that will change us for all the later years of our life. Life is not really what comes to us, but what we get from it." Our so-called failures are often nature's manifestations of the darkness just before the dawn. If we have high ideals, work faithfully, honestly and honorably, always doing our best, our seeming failures need not dishearten us; they should prove sources of new strength. "The honest, faithful struggler should always realize that failure is but an episode in a true man's life—never the whole story."

What We Really Need.

Each of us in our own small organization possesses a germ, or whatever you like to call it, which, properly developed, should eventually lead us to the realization of all our ambitions. All that is wanted is energy and concentration.—The Ladies' Field.

You need not suffer from sickness, and you need not fill yourself with drugs in order to be made well.
The great new science of Chiropractic (K. H. P. M. A. T. K.) has shown the world that in order to be made well, and to remain well, it is necessary to remove the cause of the sickness, and not to treat the symptoms with medicine. Chiropractic is the science of the adjustment of the human body, which controls every function and organ of the entire human system and every member in it, and through the spine. When certain nerves do not perform their functions, you become sick. The way to remove the cause of the sickness is to get at the nerves that are not working. This is done by Chiropractic adjustment of the spine. Almost every ailment is curable by the Chiropractic science. If you suffer from sickness of any kind, call for free consultation and advice.

PARABLES WERE APPLIED TO LIFE
BY REV. W. P. CHRISTY IN SERMON YESTERDAY MORNING.

THE CHURCH SHOULD BRING Back into the Church Those Members Who Like Lost Sheep. Have Wandered Away From Fold.

From the parables spoken by Jesus, of the lost sheep and the lost coin, as told by The Apostle Luke in the fifteenth chapter of the Gospel of St. Luke, the text of the morning sermon, by Rev. W. P. Christy at the English Lutheran church was taken yesterday. The story is told in the first ten verses of the chapter.

"Salvation unto the church of men," said Rev. Christy, "was the great work of the Saviour, and in order to establish this great work the Saviour spoke several parables. He spoke first of the lost sheep, of the lost coin, and of the Prodigal Son. Our Gospel deals only with the first two.

"One of the laws of economy in God's grace is that it is better to prevent loss than to recover loss, but no matter how careful the Saviour of Souls is there are some lost. In this regard the Master taught us: 'Train up the child in the way he should go, and when old he will not depart from it.' It is most necessary that a supreme effort should be put forth for the careful training of the coming generation that they may have their feet in the right path. When there are lost sheep, all this points out a duty—the recovery of that which was lost.

"We who live in an age where the value of the creatures of God is estimated in dollars and cents are in a poor position to understand this parable. The Oriental shepherd has a regard for his sheep almost the same as the father has for the child. When one of the flock was lost the shepherd searched for the one which was lost. This parable is to emphasize the sacredness of one of those who are lost.

"The figure of the wandering sheep brings to us one of the characteristics of human nature—the ignorance and lack of foresight and knowledge of the Great Shepherd. There are thousands brought into the Covenant relation with God, who are not in the fold and who are wandering and straying from the Master, the Shepherd of Souls.

"How has this come about? There are many causes. The age in which we live is not a dovetail age. It is anything but that which will develop the soul. The child of today finds on matter that is not conducive to true Christian development. The youthful feet are started in a path which diverges from the straight and narrow path. There are thousands of influences which lead the lambs of the fold away.

"We might also cite the homes and the parents. What influences are there in the home which will impress on their minds sacred things. How many minutes a day are devoted, in most homes, to a consideration of things sacred. These things indicate why so many are wandering and straying. 'Immigration is ever westward.' The immigrant goes across the plains to the western empire in our own United States and Canada. There he catches the spirit of America, of thrift and industry, which makes America one of the most enlightened and foremost of the countries of the world. He gets that, but what does he lose? The sacred things of the Fatherland are removed. No thought is given to the thousands of western cities to the development of the ethical side of nature. A thrifty, God-fearing generation of young people is being reared. To visit the homes and the great industries which have been the products of their toil, one must stop and wonder, but when one sees the ignorance of God and Salvation, it is appalling.

"What man of you, having a hundred sheep, if he lose one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness, and go after that which is lost, until he find it? The great obligation laid on the Church is the ingathering of the wandering sheep, which by the thousands are found in our land. The command is to go, and what is the Church doing with regard to that.

"We read of the great need of those who are willing to go and redeem those who are lost and wandering. The cry all over the land is for men and for ministers. Today in our own church there are less than one-half as many young men preparing for the ministry than there were twenty years ago, when the church was not one-half its present size. There are vacancies in the older synods, particularly in those of the West. There are places springing up all over the West where they are calling on the church to send men to teach their children. There are thousands of places where men and women are pleading to have the Gospel preached to them and there are none to send. The great cry is for men who realize what Christianity has meant in their lives and in the lives of those entrusted to them. When you think it might be the misfortune of your child to settle in a community all given over to worldliness. Then it is a matter of prayer laid on your heart, that God send laborers to proclaim peace and salvation throughout the land.

ALUMNI BANQUET IS ON FRIDAY EVENING
Program Arranged For This Annual Event in the School

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT ALUMNI BANQUET
One Hundred and Thirty-two Graduates Gathered for the Annual Love Feast at Monroe.

Monroe, Wis., June 12.—One hundred and thirty-two graduates assembled at the annual banquet of the English Lutheran church, which was held at the Monroe Hotel last night. The banquet was held under the supervision of the ladies of the church. The tables were placed in the form of a triangle and on each were huge bouquets of daisies and yellow roses and silver centerpieces, all of which added extensively to the attractive appearance of the banquet tables. President E. A. Shriver, of the class of '90 presided as master of ceremonies. The banquet was followed by a program of music and speeches, consisting of a duet by H. G. Van Wageningen and Mrs. Nellie Foster Stearns, "Requiem" by Steve Stutz, class of '92, who is now located at Washington, D. C., solos by the Misses Anna and Helen Mary, a talk on "The Growth of our Church," by Mrs. C. A. Booth, class of '90, and a prayer by Prof. G. H. Haveron, the response by Willis G. Haveron, president of the class of 1910. Letters were read from various alumni, who lived at a distance and could not be present. A business session then followed and after this had been disposed of the evening was given over to dancing and a social time.

FEEDING A MEANS TO AN END.
The draft horse could not do the work of the race horse, not because he is inferior in strength, but because his energy is utilized in a different channel. So the brain worker could not do the work of the porter without gradually adapting himself to it. Man cannot compete with the horse or the eagle in flight, but in the automobile he has already outrun the horse, and the flying machine will yet give him wings. An ox has four stomachs and is little more than a digestive apparatus, spending nine-tenths of its vitality in alimentation, including its time. But mind is the measure of man, and his feeding is only a means to an end. To discover how to maintain an equal or superior degree of health while increasing the working capacity, by reducing the expenditure of vitality for digestion and elimination, is a purpose no less important than to make two blades of grass grow where but one grew before.

ALUMNI BANQUET IS ON FRIDAY EVENING
Program Arranged For This Annual Event in the School

The annual banquet of the alumni of the Janesville High School will be held at the high school building Friday evening at which time the members of the class of 1910 will be entertained by the graduates of former years. Extra efforts are being made this year to create a large interest in the school by bringing members of the former students together at this time. The principal purpose of this banquet is for the better acquaintance of all alumni with each other and with the graduating classes. The officers of the association, who have the arrangements for the feast, in charge are: Fred Holt, president; Gladys Hedblom, vice-president; Ada Bucklander, secretary; Harold Jones, treasurer.

DRAG FOR CHARLTON'S BODY.
Italian Police Believe American Man Was Slain With Wife.

Como, Italy, June 12.—Search for Porter Charlton alive has practically been abandoned by the Italian police. They are now bending every effort to find the dead body of the man they believe was slain with his wife, whose body was found Thursday mangled in a trunk in the bottom of Lake Como.

BALLOON DROPS 8,000 FEET.
Aeronaut and Pilot Are Rescued From Mississippi River.

St. Louis, June 12.—J. D. Wooster Lambert, a young millionaire, who has just taken up aeronautics as a sport, dropped from a height of 8,000 feet into the Mississippi river while making his maiden trip in the 78,000 cubic foot balloon St. Louis No. 3 of the Aero club of St. Louis. Lambert was the pilot. Both were rescued by a motor boat and escaped with wet feet. The balloon was also saved.

Washington, June 12.—Vice-President Sherman and Speaker Cannon must pay the salaries of their chauffeurs and buy their gasoline for their government-owned automobiles.

Officers Take Negroes From Infuriated Throng and Refuge Is Sought.
Chicago, June 12.—Intent upon wreaking summary vengeance upon six negroes who had attacked three white men at the Illinois Central tracks near Twenty-fourth street, a crowd of nearly 5,000 persons tried to lynch two men they had taken away from the police.

Death Threat for Archbishop.
New Orleans, June 12.—Letters threatening Archbishop Delmonico with death on account of the active part he is taking in the work directed against the revival of race track gambling in Louisiana were received at the archbishop's palace.

ALL-NIGHT STRUGGLE WITH SEA.
Four Persons Are Stranded on Rocks of Little Hell Gate.

New York, June 12.—After spending a night of terror in an open power boat fast on the rocks of Little Hell Gate and exposed to pouring rain and cold, Miss Edna Wallace Hopper and Miss Laura Guerlier, two prominent women of the stage, with their husbands, A. O. Brown, lately a stock broker, and John J. Parker, who is in the electrical business at 1 Madison avenue, are now confined to their homes in Flushing, L. I.

$2,000,000 OIL PLANT TO CLOSE.
Standard Buys Texas Concern, But Can't Operate In State.

Galveston, Tex., June 12.—The Standard Oil company having acquired control of the Texas City Refinery company, the big plant completed a year ago at a cost of nearly $2,000,000, will be closed down. It was built as an independent refinery by Texas and Oklahoma capital and has a capacity of 3,000 barrels of oil per day. It was in direct competition with the Standard, exporting much of its product. The Texas laws will not permit the Standard to operate in this state. It purchased individual stock at fabulous prices until it acquired a majority of the stock.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Monday, June 13, 1870.—Jottings.—There was a vigorous and somewhat disastrous runaway, or rather a couple of them, this morning, inaugurated on East Milwaukee street, by a team descending with a load of wool which belonged to Mrs. Fox of Otter Creek, and driven by her son. When about half way down the hill the clevis pin of one of the wheelers came out and let the whippersnapper onto the heels of one of the horses. Frightened at this, he and his companion cleared themselves from the wagon at a bound, and despite the effort of the driver, who stuck to them right manfully, were soon in a frantic run. Just ahead of the running animals was the horse and covered buggy of Mrs. Izora Goodrich of Milwaukee, with an open buggy in the rear of it, bound for the shop of Hodge & Buchholz. When the driver heard the runaways coming, he attempted to get out of their way but without success, and one of the horses plunged into the rear buggy utterly demolishing it and frightening Good-rich's horse, which started on a run toward the court house, while the double team kept on at full speed up Ninth street to North First, and following that street up came around to the wagon from which they cleared, where they were stopped and strange to say, were unhurt. Mentioning the other runaway had brought up in the gravel pit at the court house, upsetting the buggy and throwing the driver out. Fortunately, both man and horse escaped without injury and the vehicle was not badly damaged.

A New Business Directory.—Messrs. Wm. F. Evans and A. Tucker are now canvassing the city for a new directory which is to be gotten up on a novel plan, and will be an important medium of advertising and handy reference book for business men. The volume is to embrace a directory of Milwaukee, and also a directory of each one of the towns on the main line and branches of the Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway throughout its entire length.

FIRE BURNS OVER 20 ACRES.

Seattle Blaze Causes $750,000 Damage—Many People Homeless.

Seattle, Wash., June 13.—Fire that broke out on the northern waterfront during a hurricane was carried by the wind to a district to the eastward thickly covered by wooden buildings and in a short time 20 acres of frame dwellings were ablaze, causing a loss of $750,000 and driving 500 people homeless.

Foreman Killed in Strike.

La Crosse, Wis., June 13.—John H. Studer, foreman of the La Crosse Pearl Button company's plant, was shot and killed as a result of a strike, and scores of citizens are adding the police in search of the scoundrel near the Mississippi river for the murder.

Knecks Out Looker System.

Topeka, Kan., June 13.—The supreme court of Kansas handed down a decision in the Topeka club case, denying the right of the club to maintain a locker system for the benefit of members who keep liquor for their own use.

Noose of Our Ancestors.

Ancient white man had immense bony buttresses like a billy goat's bulging out above his eyebrows, he had brow and no forehead, and no bony bridge of the nose to speak of. So when such an evolutionary granddaddy got a rockdagger over his eye and nose with a net or a club it didn't much matter. He did not have to have the bridge of his nose raised by a surgical engineer, nor have his eye painted by a "black eye artist." The same kind of clubbing today would not only spoil a man's looks for life, but might end him then and there. It is pretty clear that the white man's nose is a type of the white man's mind in everything bespeaking gentle manners.

COMMERCE CONGRESS CONVENES

Important Assemblage of Business Men in Session in London.

London, June 13.—The International Congress of Chambers of Commerce, one of the most important commercial assemblies in the world, began its sessions here today, and for a fortnight men of business from many lands will discuss big commercial topics. Delegates from some 200 organizations are present.

The program provides for the discussion and consideration of seven topics, all of them of great interest to Europeans, and most of them to Americans, because of their trade relations with the countries across the sea. Those topics are:

1. Establishment of a fixed date for the annual Easter festival and the unification and simplification of the Gregorian calendar.
2. Direct representation of commerce and industry at official conferences and international economic congresses.
3. Development of postal relations and of the European postal union.
4. Unification of the system of interchanging of bank checks.
5. International agreement by which any judgment of a court of arbitration award shall be accepted in later proceedings in another country without question or revision.
6. Indorsement of the action of the Madrid convention on trademarks (marks of origin).
7. Methods of custom house valuations for statistical purposes.

Both Spain and the United States have asked for the next meeting of the congress, which will be held in 1912.

BANK COMBINE IS RATIFIED.

Union of Continental and Commercial at Chicago Consummated.

Chicago, June 13.—Directors of the Commercial National and the Continental National banks ratified the plan for the consolidation of the two institutions.

The action was unanimous in both boards. August 1 was the date set for opening under the new arrangement.

It was decided to form an entirely new corporation to take over the business and the assets of the present banks. Its name will be the Continental and Commercial National bank. Its capital stock will be $20,000,000 and it will start with surplus capital of $13,072,000.

Included in this merger will be the American Trust and Savings bank, owned by the Continental, and the Commercial Trust and Savings bank, recently organized by the Commercial National.

These four institutions, when combined, will have a total capital of $23,000,000 and surplus and undivided profits of $19,000,000. Their total deposits are close to $185,000,000 and their total resources about $218,000,000.

Idleness as a Cause of Gossip.

"Do women gossip more than men?" asks an exclamation. They do, because they have more time and not because they have the stranger inclination for it. An idle man can beat a woman gossiping seven days out of every week.—Springfield Republican.

The Ticklemouse

—and his Sleepyland Adventures

By Roy Rutherford Bailey with Davy and Dorfy

The Tickleants

CAN'T we go down into an anthill tonight," asked Dorfy, "and see them in their little homes?"

"Of course, we don't know how you could manage it," added Davy, "because the ant holes are so tiny."

"The mouse chuckled and gently tickled each twin back of the ear, and as he tickled they dwindled till they were no larger than ants themselves. Then he and Willy tickled each other, and they grew tiny, too. And at a one-legged, spunt-eyed wish from Willy, all four were turned into tiny black ants.

"They crawled slowly along in the moonlight until the 'Tickleant' for he was a mouse no longer—stopped and wiped his forehead with one shiny foot. "This is a long crawl," he mused. "Why didn't we have sense enough to wait till we got close to the anthills before dwindling?"

It was hard for the twins to realize that the great mountain of shining rocks was the anthill they had been playing beside all the afternoon. They were so small now that what had been mere grains of sand by day now seemed monstrous stones and heavy chunks of granite. But there lay Davy's toy shovel—looking as big as a barn—right where the twins had left it.

And not only was everything in the yard much larger, but the sounds of the night were much louder. "What's that rushing, jarring noise?" whispered Dorfy.

"That's the night shift at work—carrying up the grains of sand and dropping them at the edge of the heap," answered the Tickleant. "They always work by moonlight at this time of the year if they have a rush job on hand. There comes one—and he's red! Run, quick, and hide!" But it was too late. The red ants' night watch had seen them.

"What—loading?" he cried in a terror.

Whenever the watchful overseers caught them stopping to rest, the quick flash came down on their little black shoulders and the toil began again. Most of the other ants wore miner's lamps, and the four found it doubly hard stumbling round in the dark. Along toward morning poor little Dorfy tripped and fell, a swarm of ants tumbling on top of her.

One of the overseers swung his lamp around at the four strange workers. "They're black!" he screamed. "Chase 'em out of here!" "Kill the coons!" cried the other red ants, swinging their lamps and scrambling up the hole after them. The lonely mine was alive with lights and angry shouts.

Luckily, when the four reached the top the watchman was nowhere in sight. "Quick, back to the house!" cried the Tickleant, hurrying off as fast as his tired legs would carry him. They stopped in the shadow of a tree, for the distance was too great after all, and Willy changed them back to their usual size and shape.

"Well, I know one thing!" said Dorfy, as the mice told them good night. "I thought it was fun, before, to poke grains of sand back into the ant holes, just to watch them carry them. But I never will again!"

"Here, too!" echoed Davy, with a sleepy sigh.

Plague of Rats in Canada.

According to Consul General Jones, at Winnipeg, Canada is in great need of rat traps. Farmers in the grain belt are becoming anxious over the invasion of rodents from the United States, and are willing and able to pay a good price for a trap that will combine durability and efficiency. The rats are bearing Winnipeg and attempts to check them by inoculation with a communicable virus have so far failed to stop their march.

Here's Your Chance For a Farm!

Big Lumbermen Have Turned Over 500,000 Acres in Wisconsin to American Immigration Company For Settlement.

GREAT LAND SALE IS ON!

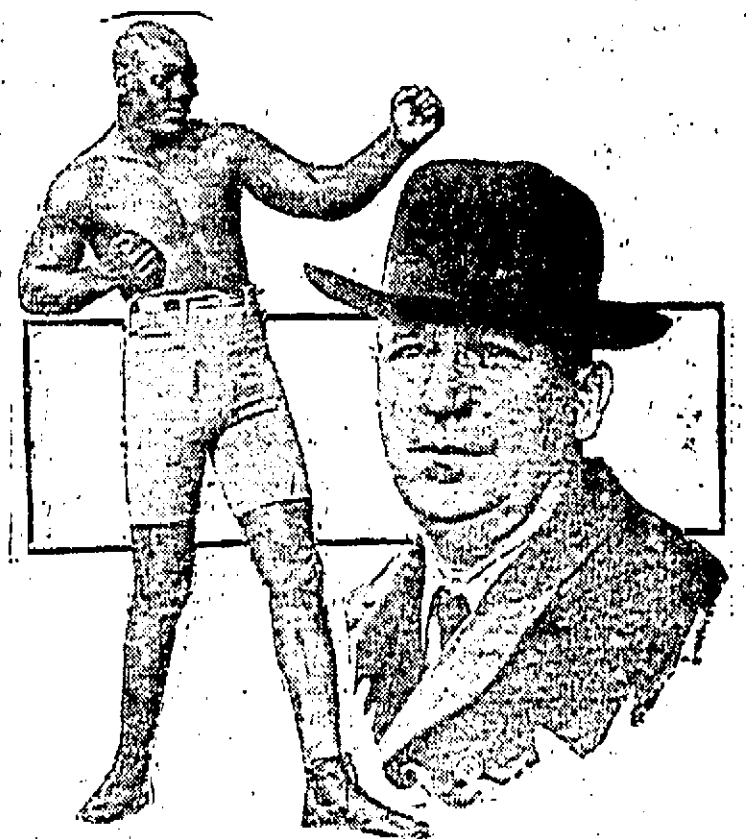

Quit the uphill fight as a tenant farmer. Here's a chance for a farm of your own. Up to Wisconsin! Grow up with Wisconsin! Put your money and muscle and vim into buying, clearing and developing a farm that will make you independent. The American Immigration Company of Chippewa Falls, Wis., has come into possession of a total of over half a million acres in the very heart of Wisconsin. Over 150,000 acres of this rich undeveloped land lie in the Round Lake Country, Sawyer County, alone. A country of abundant rainfall and the purest of water. This is the best of all the ROUND LAKE WISCONSIN FARM LANDS and settlers and investors are snapping it up at $0.50 to $20 per acre, on ten years time.

The company is making these remarkably low prices and easy terms because its great development plans center in Sawyer County. New roads are being laid out, railroads are coming and great progress is being made by the settlers already there.

This is a rich, sandy loam, with clay subsoil, or a clayey loam soil, both particularly adapted for dairy farming, stock raising and the production of big crops of wheat, oats, barley, flueing, clover, timothy, sugar beets and all classes of vegetables. Stock raising is very profitable.

Parties interested should write once for map, brochure, description, to the local representative of the American Immigration Company.

DELANEY MAY NOT TRAIN JOHNSON.

Picture of Jack Johnson as he is today at training camp and veteran trainer, Billy Delaney.

San Francisco, Cal.—Billy Delaney, the veteran fight manager, and Jack Johnson, who still talk business, but long ago talk talk this afternoon, and again thus far they have not come to terms. Johnson wants Delaney at his camp. The black boxer Billy as well as he but he does not want to give him full. Nobody or anything save money, swing, nor does he care about allow. The money question is the real sticking Delaney to take off the cut which the veteran thinks should be skipping him. Delaney is a game old bird and he won't budge an inch, much as he his way. Thus they are in a sort of deadlock, and it is barely possible that the nothing will come of the big deal champion is going to lay left flat in which looked so very good a few days side of twenty rounds.
